The lanes, in Argyle and Campbell Streets, include a highly visible coloured surface at points along the route to increase safety for cyclists.

They are part of the Hobart Regional Arterial Bicycle Network, which is funded by the state and federal governments and the Hobart City Council.

State minister Lisa Singh says there are many benefits.

"Ways in which people can contribute to a low emissions transport option to a low emissions city, of course."

"The hope is also that people will be healthier and take up the option of cycling to reduce congestion but also to reduce our emissions on the roads," she said.
